

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL.

STATE OF ILLINOIS,
OFFICE OF SECRETARY OF STATE,
Springfield, November 1, 1922.

To His Excellency, Hon. Len Small, Governor of Illinois.

DEAR SIR: In compliance with Section 6, of Chapter 102, Section 5, of Chapter 124, Hurd's 1917 and 1918 Revised Statutes, and Section 21, of Article V, of the Constitution, I have the honor to submit herewith my biennial report as Secretary of State, including the reports of the various departments of the office, and the report of the Illinois State Library. This report covers the biennial period from October 1, 1920, to September 30, 1922.

Very respectfully,

Secretary of State.

ILLINOIS STATE LIBRARY—GENERAL LIBRARY DIVISION.

The report of the Illinois State Library for October 1, 1920 to June 30, 1921 and of the General Library Division of the Illinois State Library for July 1, 1921 to September 30, 1922 is here submitted. The change in title is in accordance with the provisions of the 1921 revision of the Illinois State Library law of 1874, which also provided that the Library Extension Commission become the Library Extension Division of the State Library, and that a new Division be created to be known as the Archives Division.

During October 1, 1920 to September 30, 1922 biennial period 6,075 bound volumes were recorded as accessions, classified, shelf-listed, catalogued, marked and added to the shelves. These were obtained as follows:

m	0.000
Books purchased	3,367 volumes
Bound periodicals	894 volumes
Bound newspapers	111 volumes
Books donated
United States Government publications
Illinois State publications
Publications of other states received as exchanges

Total	6.075 volumes

The total number of bound volumes now in the library as shown on the accession record is 82,099. At least 7,000 pamphlets were acquired by the Library during the two year period, a large portion of them from the federal, state and foreign governments on exchange, the rest as donations from associations, institutions and individuals. Many of these publications are of permanent value, and are therefore classified, cataloged and added to the shelves as are the bound volumes. Others, of merely ephemeral interest, can be arranged temporarily in a vertical file for quick reference.

Library of Congress printed cards have been used in the catalog wherever possible. In addition to the cataloging of current accessions some progress has been made in classifying and cataloging certain unfinished portions of this work in the Library collection, and it is hoped that this can be continued until the reorganization begun in 1912 is finally completed.

Shipments of Illinois State publications have been made at convenient intervals in exchange for publications received from other states. The supply for this purpose is obtained under the provisions of the Contracts law of 1915. The exchange list might be enlarged with profit to the Library, but the lack of adequate shelving space has been a serious drawback to further development.

Several thousand duplicate state documents were removed from storage shelves and returned, on request, to the State Library in the State of their origin.

Court reports from other states, received on exchange, 226 volumes in number, were transferred to the Supreme Court Library.

There are on file in the Reading Room, 15 newspapers and 270 magazines. Current magazines are made available for circulation to State employees for home use during the hours the library is closed. This is apparently a much appreciated privilege.

Publications of many national and state associations, sociological, economic, educational, and technical, are received through Library membership.

The donation of 6,000 volumes of the State Museum Library, made by the Museum Directors in 1920, has not been formally acquired because of the present shelf shortage. The books will be removed to the State Library stacks in the Centennial Building now nearing completion, and it is hoped, will be quite as accessible to the Museum staff as if they remained a separate departmental library collection.

Statistics of library service are not available for the entire period covered by this report. An average of about 75 reference questions were answered each week, some of them easily and readily from the numerous reference books and indexes owned by the Library, others requiring extended investigation. The federal collection, which is well classified and cataloged, is of great value in this work.

There were 7,283 volumes, almost entirely nonfiction, issued as inter-library and individual loans to 131 libraries, 53 schools and 1,234 persons in 355 different towns. Since July 1, 1921, statistics of circulation show 11,671 books and magazines issued to State House borrowers, and 1,864 Volumes to the Library Extension for re-issue in the State outside of Springfield.

This library has been a part of the State's official equipment since 1842 with, than as now, its immediate constituency made up of members and officers of the General Assembly, Supreme Court judges, and State officials. Books on practically all phases of a constantly widening group of State activities are here, and the library might well occupy in State affairs the position held by the business library in the larger business corporations of the present time. Just how the present collection of material may be used to the best advantage, and just how the fullest cooperation with departmental libraries may be gained, are matters for consideration after the present problem of removal to the new building is solved.

The library was represented at the Annual Conference of the American Library Association, the National Association of State

Libraries, and the Illinois Library Association.

ARCHIVES DIVISION.

Herewith is submitted the report of the Archives Division of the Illinois State Library for the period April 1, 1922 (the date of its organization) to September 30, 1922.

Preparatory to the opening of the division the superintendent visited the principal archives departments in other states and at Washington, D. C., studying particularly the question of equipment. Pending completion of the Centennial Building which is to house the archives of the State, it is impracticable to attempt any sorting or rearrangement of the documents now in the various vaults and storerooms of the State House, but an inventory has been made of the material in the custody of the Secretary of State and further inventories of the records of other departments will be made as soon as possible. most important work of the Division so far has been the compliation of a "guide to the archives" which shows for every department, board and commission created by the State from 1818 to the present, the history of its organization, the development of its powers, duties, functions, etc., and lists the records it has been required to keep, and the reports made to and by it. The guide thus indicates not only what archives the State possesses, but where the material on any subject is to be found. A classification based upon this guide and the inventories mentioned above is now being worked out, so that when the documents are once brought to the division they can be prepared for public use in a very short time. Care will be taken not to disturb the natural evolutionary order of the material.

The primary purpose of the Archives Division is to collect and preserve the non-current records of the State in a central repository where they will be indexed and arranged in a uniform style for free and easy consultation by State officials and historical researchers. At present these irreplaceable records are packed away in vaults, attic storerooms and are inaccessible for lack of adequate space. It is hoped that within the next few months all records for which there is now no satisfactory housing will be transferred to the Archives Division where they will be cleaned and safely stored until they can be permanently filed, which work will be done as rapidly as possible.

LIBRARY EXTENSION DIVISION BIENNIAL REPORT.

OCTOBER 1, 1920—SEPTEMBER 30, 1922.

From 1910 until July. 1921, the library extension work of the State was done by the Illinois Library Extension Commission. The 52d General Assembly which convened in January, 1921, annulled the commission and reorganized the State Library creating three divisions. The work of the Library Commission was transferred to one of these; the Library Extension Division.

Under the new organization the division carries on the same plan of work, development of public libraries, establishing new libraries and loaning books.

During the biennium 18 new libraries have been established; 1 county library at Warren County with central library at Monmouth; 3 township libraries at Atkinson, Cisco and Lawrenceville; 8 city libraries at Albion, Carbondale, Cicero, Elmwood, Johnston City, Oglesby, Silvis and Vandalia; 3 village libraries at Libertyville, Ogden and Wood River.

The Adams Memorial Library at Wheafon has always been supported by an endowment. In June, 1922 the city appropriated a special library tax as an additional maintenance fund. There are at present 226 free public libraries supported by taxation or a permanent endowment.

The older libraries are growing stronger and more useful each year. The rules are more liberal. Few libraries require guarantors for their patrons. Most libraries allow the reader to take home at one time at least 5 books. The reader's card has resolved itself into a mere identification slip. The number of branches and distributing agencies have been increased, bringing the books nearer to the people. More effort is being expended in stimulating the reading of more worth while books.

The Library Extension Division aids in this work through correspondence, visits to libraries, public addresses, publishing a quarterly bulletin, reports, statistics and leaflets, and arranging district meetings. From October 1, 1921 to September 30, 1922, 14,754 letters have been sent out from the division. This includes circular letters for district and State meetings.

The superintendent has made 177 advisory visits to public libraries, and given 40 public addresses.

In September, 1922, a field visitor was added to the staff. This visitor devotes most of her time to aiding librarians in revising their records, organizing new libraries and assisting in the general visiting of libraries. In the one year, she has organized on modern methods 7 new libraries and revised the records in 6 other libraries.

The regional library conferences offer one of the best opportunities to render assistance to libraries. These conferences are in the nature of round tables. Lists of pertinent topics are prepared and someone selected to introduce each subject. The discussions are free and informal.

The State is divided into 14 districts and annual conferences have been held in each district. The Illinois Library Association cooperates with the Library Extension Division in arranging for these meetings.

The publications issued by the division are: Illinois Libraries, a quarterly bulletin.

LOAN DEPARTMENT.

The library consists of books, periodicals, pamphlets, pictures and reports, and bulletins of the various state library commissions.

During the biennium 6,769 books have been added to the collection. 1,722 have been withdrawn, most of these were worn out. The total number of volumes now in the library exclusive of periodicals and pamphlets is 26,930. All books purchased during the last year have been fully cataloged. Previously only shelf and author and title cards were made.

Forty-seven periodicals are subscribed for annually for use in reference work. These are not bound as single numbers may be loaned more advantageously.

All pamphlets and clippings are arranged alphabetically by subjects and filed in vertical filing cases.

The picture collection consists of 8,002 pictures of which 1,595 have been purchased in the last two years. The collection includes reproductions in color of the old masters and modern artists for exhibit purposes. Much of the larger part of the collection is made up of smaller reproductions for art study. There are also pictures for use in school work in geography, history, English and art.

Believing that there were many people in the State who would be glad to undertake a systematic course in reading if only they had outlines prepared for them, the Division published September, 1921, 10 reading courses. The subjects were varied in scope and were meant to appeal to the general reader, club woman, parents and teachers. Anyone completing the reading of any one of the courses is entitled to a certificate issued by the department. 193 people from various parts of the State have registered for the courses. Five have completed their reading and obtained their certificates.
